Look for a tolerance value. Some capacitors list a tolerance, or the maximum expected range in capacitance compared to its listed value. This isn't important in all circuits, but you may need to pay attention to this if you require a precise capacitor value.

I have a DDR3 implemented in our current design with 50 Ohm 0402 termination resistors and 0.1uF 0402 decoupling capacitors to VTT on the address, data and control lines. The design is working well but we need to make a new revision and we are short on PCB space. Can these resistors and or capacitors be reduced to 0201 ?
